Family Development and Self-Sufficiency

FaDSS will help you to achieve the things you want. This may include helping you to:

- Continue your education, including high school diploma, GED, or college
- Improve your job opportunities, through resume writing, interview skills and completing applications
- Build on your parenting skills through parenting groups or at home visits

SIEDA FaDSS Specialists will work with you to access community resources, assist in locating support services such as child care and transportation, and help build your parenting skills. FaDSS Specialists can present the evidence based parenting program, Parenting Wisely. This is a computer friendly program that can be utilized in the privacy of your home, in a group setting, or in an office environment. FaDSS Specialists will invite you to participate in various programs offered within the community by other service providers. FaDSS Specialists can serve as an advocate for you and will assist you in reaching your self-sufficiency goals.

FaDSS:

- Will help you reach your goals
- Focuses on your family's long term success
- Is voluntary and free

FaDSS will visit with you in your home to:

- Discover your family strengths
- Set goals that address you and your family's dreams
- Provide referrals to other community services
- Advocate with you for other services

Eligibility:

- Receiving Family Investment Program Benefits (FIP)
